Why People Search for "Selling" a Driver's License

When people use terms associated to selling a license, they usually refer to one of three genuine administrative processes. Comprehending these procedures assists clarify what can and can not be done legally in Italy.

1. Surrendering a Foreign License for an Italian One

When non-EU nationals from countries with reciprocal contracts (such as particular U.S. states, depending upon residency rules, or specific South American and Asian nations) transfer to Italy, they are ultimately required to convert their foreign license.

- The Process: The foreign license is physically given up to the Italian authorities, and in exchange, an Italian chauffeur's license is issued.
- The Misconception: Some view this exchange loosely as "trading" or "selling" one license for another, however it is strictly an administrative conversion dealt with by the state.

2. Updating or Changing License Categories

Chauffeurs often want to transition from one class of lorry to another. While you can not sell your Category B (cars and truck) license to another person, you can surrender particular credentials if you are upgrading to commercial tiers, or you can let a specialized license lapse if you no longer meet the health requirements.

3. The Italian Point System and "Selling" Points (Illegal)

A well-known misconception in Italy includes motorists offering their remaining license indicate habitual traffic lawbreakers.

- How it works (in theory): A chauffeur with a clean record gets a fine and points deduction, however instead of taking the penalty, they illegally associate the offense to somebody else who accepts "offer" their points for cash.
- The Reality: This practice is unlawful. The Italian Traffic Police (Polizia Stradale) actively investigate inconsistencies between who was caught dedicating the infraction (through speed video cameras or patrols) and who ultimately takes the point deduction. Doing so makes up scams versus the state.
