At its core, Plinko is a game of chance that simulates the physics of a gravity-driven drop. In the digital variation, the gamer normally manages three primary variables: the Bet Amount, the Risk Level, and the Number of Rows.

How It Works

When a player clicks the "Play" button, a virtual chip is launched from the top of a triangular pyramid filled with pegs. As the chip comes down, it bounces off these pegs in a randomized, disorderly course up until it lands in one of the slots at the bottom. Each slot is assigned a specific multiplier. If the chip lands in a slot with a value higher than 1.0 x, the gamer wins; if it lands in a slot lower than 1.0 x, the player loses a portion of their stake.

Modification Options

Unlike numerous traditional fruit machine, Plinko provides the gamer an unexpected amount of agency. By changing the settings, players can dictate the volatility of their session:

- Low Risk: The multipliers in the center are lower, but the outer multipliers are rarely zeroed out. This is ideal for long, steady play.
- Medium Risk: A balance between steady wins and greater prospective benefits.
- High Risk: The multipliers on the edges can reach massive heights (often 1000x or more), but the center slots often result in a loss. This is for gamers chasing after the "big win."
