When Jimmy Carter was in the White House and the Roanoke Civic Center was still a fairly new building, Mary Jane Wszolek started cleaning homes in the Roanoke Valley. That was 1979, and the business she built, The Happy Housekeepers, is still answering the phone today from the Cave Spring area of southwest Roanoke County. For homeowners searching for house cleaning in Roanoke, that kind of staying power says more than any advertisement could.

The company began with residential work, and home cleaning remains at the center of what it does. A standard visit covers the rooms that wear down fastest in a busy household: furniture is dusted or polished, carpets are vacuumed, hard surface floors are mopped, and the kitchen and bathrooms get a complete clean-up. Window sills, baseboards, blinds and ceiling fans are dusted, waste baskets are emptied, and cobwebs are cleared from corners that most of us stop noticing after a while.

What separates a long-running local company from a newcomer is consistency. Over four decades, the family business has kept the same basic promise its founder made: show up when you say you will, work hard, and be honest with the customer. Mary Jane passed away suddenly in 1999, but the people who carry on the company describe her work ethic as the standard they still hold themselves to on every job in Roanoke, Salem, Vinton and the surrounding county.
