

- Proper installation matters enough to outweigh small differences between materials in many homes.

An experienced company can confirm the cause with a quick inspection.

That kind of inspection matters because many door problems are not really material problems at all. They come from the frame, the window replacement Coppel threshold, weatherstripping, or movement in the opening.

That is especially true when the hardware is worn, the seals are failing, and the slab itself no longer closes cleanly.

Either can be a good upgrade, but the best results come from matching the material to the house, the exposure, and the way the home is actually used.
