Each individual transfers a set variety of case-opening credits (often acquired with genuine money or via skins). When the battle begins, the platform immediately opens a similar series of cases for every single gamer. The appeal lies in the instant thrill of seeing an unusual float-value skin appear on your screen, the social competitors (gamers Case Battles can see opponents open their cases in real time), and the prospective to stroll away with a high-value product worth far more than the cost of the cases.
