What Are Case Battles?

At its core, a case fight is a multiplayer variation of opening standard virtual loot boxes. In a standard setup, a single gamer purchases a digital case and opens it to get a random item based on pre-determined drop rates.

A case fight takes this idea and turns it into a competitive, head-to-head format.

- The Opening: Once the battle begins, the system at the same time opens the cases for all participants round by round.
- The Win Condition: At the end of the defined number of rounds, the overall financial worth of all products won by each player is computed. The participant with the highest cumulative value takes home all the items dropped in the fight.

How Case Battles Work: A Step-by-Step Overview

While different platforms may include unique interface or specific rule sets, the fundamental lifecycle of a case battle stays consistent throughout the board.

2. Funding the Entry: Participants pay the comparable expense of the picked cases from their platform balance.
3. The Battle Phase: Players watch in genuine time as the cases open. The suspense builds with each tier of products exposed, as uncommon and important drops can entirely turn the tide of the game in the final round.
4. Payout and Distribution: The algorithm tallies ball games. The winner receives every single item opened by all participants throughout the match.
