

When it comes to supporting your dog's mobility and joint health, consistent daily supplementation is key. For many dog owners, deciding how and when to replenish those supplements can feel a little tricky. Everhound's Hip & Joint - Daily Soft Chews have become a notable option in this space, thanks to their cold-made soft chews and transparent ingredient profile. If you've seen or heard about their subscription offering—specifically the option to deliver every 90 days—you might be wondering: does a 90-day delivery cycle actually line up with what's inside the jar?

In this post, we'll unpack everything you need to know about planning your dog's Hip & Joint supplementation using Everhound's 120-chew jars. We'll cover how the daily joint support approach differs from treatment-centered plans, explore what's really in these chews, dig into pricing and subscription math, and even touch on payment options like American Express and Apple Pay for seamless checkout.

Daily Joint Support vs. Treatment Framing

Before diving into delivery logistics, let's understand how Everhound positions its Hip & Joint - Daily Soft Chews in the broader context of joint care for dogs.

Many joint products frame themselves as “treatments” — suggesting you give them only when your dog shows signs of discomfort or diagnosed arthritis flare-ups. Everhound takes a different route. Their chews are marketed as daily joint support, designed to maintain and promote long-term joint health and mobility rather than react to issues after they arise.

This distinction matters because it influences how you should plan usage and subscriptions. With daily support, consistency is key — you need to give the supplement every day without breaks. Skipping or stretching the dose can reduce the effectiveness of key ingredients like glucosamine, chondroitin, and MSM.

Why Daily Use Builds Better Mobility

- Supports cartilage longevity: Ingredients work gradually to maintain cushion and flexibility in joints.
- Reduces inflammation over time: Natural compounds help modulate discomfort dynamically.
- Promotes easier movement: Dogs feel better day to day, even if they aren't yet showing symptoms.

So, when Everhound offers you delivery every 90 days, this is expected to cover a full three-month daily cycle, matching the product's design and encouraging routine use.

Everhound's Cold-Made Soft Chews: What's Unique?

One of Everhound's standout traits is their manufacturing process. Their Hip & Joint chews are cold-made soft chews, distinguishing them from traditional heat-processed tablets or hard chews.

Why does this matter for your dog?

- Preserves ingredient potency: Heat can degrade sensitive compounds like fish oils and vitamins; cold-making helps keep them intact.
- Taste and texture: Many dogs prefer the chewable softness and palatability of such treats, improving adherence to daily dosing.
- Gentle on digestion: Soft chews tend to be easier to digest, especially for senior dogs with sensitive stomachs.

This is a thoughtful positioning that <https://everhound.com/products/hip-and-joint> complements daily use — making it easier for pet parents to consistently administer the supplements without battle or hesitation.

The ‘Eight Familiar Ingredients’ Promise and Label Transparency

One of my pet retail pet peeves is vague ingredient claims. Everhound scores high points in this area with clear labeling and an “eight familiar ingredients” claim that they stand behind transparently.

Here’s the full list you’ll find on the label of Hip & Joint - Daily Soft Chews:

1. Glucosamine HCl
2. Chondroitin Sulfate
3. MSM (Methylsulfonylmethane)
4. Yucca Schidigera Extract
5. Omega-3 Fish Oil
6. Zinc Proteinate
7. Vitamin C (Ascorbic Acid)
8. Vitamin E (Mixed Tocopherols)

These ingredients are widely recognized for their roles in joint and connective tissue health, reducing inflammation, and providing antioxidant support. Importantly, Everhound avoids exotic or filler ingredients that complicate assessing product effectiveness.

This level of transparency builds trust and helps pet parents know exactly what they’re supporting every day.

Pricing and Bundles: What Does a Jar Cost and How Long Does it Last?

Everhound’s Hip & Joint chews come in a jar containing 120 chews. Recommended dosing is typically one chew per day for most dogs, meaning:

Jar Size Recommended Dose Days Supply 120 Chews 1 chew per day 120 days (about 4 months)

That’s a key insight: one jar provides roughly a four-month supply at daily use. But Everhound’s subscription option typically offers delivery schedules of every 90 days. At first glance, it sounds almost right — but in reality, a 90-day delivery would be just 90 chews, and the jar size is a bit larger.

The pricing for a one-time purchase jar is $39.97. Let’s do the math for your subscription plan:

- 120 chews at $39.97: essentially $0.33 per chew or per daily dose
- Deliver every 90 days: you receive 120 chews but only need 90 for the 3 months

This leads to one important conclusion: with the current jar and subscription setup, you’re receiving a slightly larger quantity than you need for the 90-day interval — enough for about 4 months of daily support but delivered every 3 months.

What About Bundles?

Everhound also offers bundles or multi-packs which can tweak the price per chew down further. If you’re ordering regularly, bundling can help save money while ensuring you never run out mid-cycle. Plus, combining Hip & Joint chews with other Everhound products (like their calming or skin & coat chews) through bundles can streamline your entire dog’s supplement routine.

Subscribe-and-Save: Planning and Potential Gotchas

Subscribe-and-save services are convenient but always check these common issues before locking in:

- Mismatch between jar size and delivery frequency: As above, 120 chews last about 4 months, but delivery comes every 3 months — meaning you could accumulate extra chews or have overlap.
- Cancellation policies: Some services require advance notice; Everhound is fairly straightforward but always read the fine print.
- Price changes: Subscription prices can fluctuate, so double-check if your credit card (like American Express) or Apple Pay settings are linked correctly to capture any discount or prevent unexpected charges.
- Shipping delays: Allow extra buffer time especially if your dog's joint support must be uninterrupted.

Subscription math might seem complex, but for most users the main takeaway is: order based on your dog's daily dose needs, confirm delivery frequency matches your consumption, then set reminders for adjusting the plan as your dog's health and activity change.

Payment Options: American Express, Apple Pay, and Convenience

Everhound supports popular modern payment methods including American Express and Apple Pay, which many customers appreciate for quick, secure checkout experiences.

These methods can also streamline subscription management—making it easier to update cards or monthly spending. Plus, using these payment options means you can sometimes benefit from cashback or point rewards, buffering the cost of your dog's joint supplements.

Summary: Does Delivery Every 90 Days Match a Jar?

Aspect Details Jar Size 120 soft chews per jar Daily Dose 1 chew per day (typical) Days Supply per Jar About 120 days (~4 months) Subscription Delivery Frequency Every 90 days (3 months) Match? Not exactly; delivery is slightly more frequent than jar supply, causing a little overlap or accumulation Price (one-time purchase) $39.97 per 120-chew jar (~$0.33 per chew)

If you're comfortable with receiving your Hip & Joint chews a bit earlier than needed, subscribing every 90 days makes perfect sense for uninterrupted daily care. Alternatively, you can adjust delivery frequency or let jars accumulate before opening, keeping your dog consistently supported but syncing supply to actual consumption.

Final Thoughts

Everhound's Hip & Joint - Daily Soft Chews offer a straightforward, dog-friendly, and transparently labeled way to support your canine companion's mobility day in and day out. Their cold-made soft chew format stands out in quality, and the subscription service with delivery every 90 days generally fits well with dosing, although it slightly oversupplies relative to the jar size—something to keep in mind for budget and storage.

When planning your dog's joint supplement subscription:

1. Consider how long one jar lasts in your daily routine (about 4 months with 120 chews).
2. Match delivery frequency to usage, knowing 90-day delivery means some overlap or extra supply.
3. Use bundles if you want to save more or simplify purchases.
4. Pay attention to cancellation policies and subscription terms.
5. Take advantage of payment options like American Express and Apple Pay for smooth checkout and potential rewards.

With planning, Everhound's Hip & Joint daily chews can become a reliable and easy part of your dog's wellness regimen — keeping tails wagging and joints moving comfortably for years to come.
