What Are Buyer Contingencies?

Buyer contingencies are conditions find a realtor in las vegas that must be met for a real estate contract to become legally binding. These conditions protect buyers by allowing them to back out of a deal without losing their earnest money if certain criteria aren't met.

Common Types of Buyer Contingencies

1. Home Inspection Contingency

This clause allows buyers to have the property professionally inspected before finalizing the purchase. If significant issues are discovered, buyers can negotiate repairs or even walk away from the deal.

2. Financing Contingency

Buyers often include this contingency to ensure they secure a mortgage. If financing falls through, they can terminate the contract without penalties.

3. Appraisal Contingency

This protects buyers if the home's appraised value is less than the purchase price. They can renegotiate or exit the deal entirely.

4. Sale of Current Home Contingency

Buyers may need to sell their existing home before purchasing a new one. This contingency gives them time and security during transitions.
